To Whom It May Concern,

I second wholeheartedly Greg Gerritt's public comments against the granting of the variance request filed by The Narragansett Improvement Co., a pavement manufacturing company. I have never been to a Zoning Board hearing nor have I ever made a public comment to one until now. I recently visited Allens Ave beside the Port of Providence. Breathing the noxious and odoriferous air, trying to see the water made invisible by huge piles of garbage and asphalt even when standing only a couple of hundred yards away, trying to speak to the person standing next to me over the din of noise from constant 18 wheelers and other heavy traffic, it is beyond comprehension how adding more mountains of asphalt to those already there would be an appropriate variance to grant when the property already holds an outstanding zoning ordinance violation for non-waterfront dependent use of the property. Knowing what beautiful, non polluting uses have been made in other cities of such valuable waterfront property puts our Port of Providence to shame. The very least we can do for a start is to deny this variance.

Sincerely,

Jessie Kingston
