BID PACKAGE SPECIFICATIONS

Background

According to the United States Census Bureau, nearly 20% of Providence residents do not have broadband internet in their homes. Of the approximately 15,177 Providence households with an annual income below $20,000, over 41% reported not have a broadband internet subscription in the 2020 US Census. These data points indicate the presence of a significant digital divide in Providence, characterized by a gap between Providence’s communities in their ability to access the internet and, in turns, the opportunities it opens up to users. This divide is connected to socioeconomic status and to current and historical patterns of racial discrimination.

Several studies show the social and economic impact the digital divide has on underrepresented communities. In particular, we know that access to digital technology and the internet, or lack thereof, has a dramatic impact on educational achievement and development of 21st century workforce skills for our youth. This persistent and significant issue has only become more relevant during the Covid-19 pandemic, when so much of our work, our education, and our lives moved online.

The Pandemic has proven that access to high-speed internet at home is no longer a “nice to have” but an absolute necessity in a 21st century home. The Internet has become a piece of the basic infrastructure of the City, a necessary tool for the City to operate and provide services to constituents. Every child and family in Providence needs to be able to access reliable, high-speed internet from home, to complete schoolwork, find and apply for job opportunities, participate in public meetings, and access or complete many other daily activities.

In order to address the digital divide and its impact on vulnerable populations, the City seeks to partner with nonprofit organizations to expand no-cost broadband internet access to residents.

Funding for this project is available through the City’s American Rescue Plan Act allocation.

Scope of Work

The City of Providence is requesting proposals from public or private providers of affordable housing or other nonprofit organizations for projects that will expand access to broadband internet for low- and moderate- income residents of Providence. The primary goal of this project is to increase broadband access for Providence children and youth from low- and moderate-income households, however, we recognize that many extended families and informal social networks play an active role in childcare, and, therefore, proposals need not be limited to households with children.

Proposed projects may use a variety of modalities to expand access, which could include, but are not limited to:

- Installing broadband technology in buildings with units reserved for those with 100% or less of Area Median Income (AMI);
- Installing broadband technology in individual housing units reserved for those with 100% or less of AMI, and managing the ongoing contracts for each unit;
- Purchasing “mobile hot spots” and managing an ongoing lending program for low-and moderate-income Providence residents;
- Creating public computer labs with broadband internet in centralized spaces that are co-located with other services utilized by low-and moderate-income Providence households

Internet service should include all hardware, software, installation and/or maintenance necessary to provide continuous, reliable service to the end user. Broadband speeds of 25Mbps Up/3Mbps Down are required, with 100Mbps/20Mbps or greater preferred.

BOARD OF CONTRACT AND SUPPLY CITY OF PROVIDENCE, RHODE ISLAND

In making awards, the City will consider the number of households and individuals that proposals will cover, as well as the income ranges that will be served. The successful proposal will include a plan for sustaining internet coverage beyond the expiration of city funding (beyond June 30, 2024).

Collaborations between nonprofit organizations to increase the number of low-and moderate-income residents served are encouraged.

Required Activities:

Required activities will be largely dependent upon the proposed project design and delivery modality but should include the following components:

- I. Infrastructure - Proposals should include a detailed explanation of hardware and/or telecommunications equipment that will need to be purchased and/or installed to implement the proposed program successfully, and how it will be procured.
- II. Service contract – Proposals should include an explanation of the data plan and/or internet service provider contract that will be needed for the proposed program, how billing will be managed, and how the service will be provided.
- III. Outreach and communications – Proposals should include an explanation of how targeted community members will learn about and access this program.
- IV. Maintenance and management – Proposals should include an explanation of how internet access will be maintained and managed beyond the expiration of City funds.

Timeline:

Activities I and II should be completed by January, 2023

Activities III and IV will be ongoing.

City funds for this project will expire on June 30, 2024.

Qualifications:

The City seeks applications from public or private nonprofit organizations or collaboratives that have demonstrated experience and capacity to provide high-quality services to low- and moderate-income residents of Providence.

1. Organizational Capacity:

The awarded organization will have organizational capacity to carry out the above scope of work including:

- Demonstrated ability to manage and maintain high-quality, complex, and ongoing projects that support and benefit low-and moderate- income residents of Providence, with a particular emphasis on youth and families.
